The perfect shower and bath solution is just a few clicks away

KEUCO presents the new IXMO planner

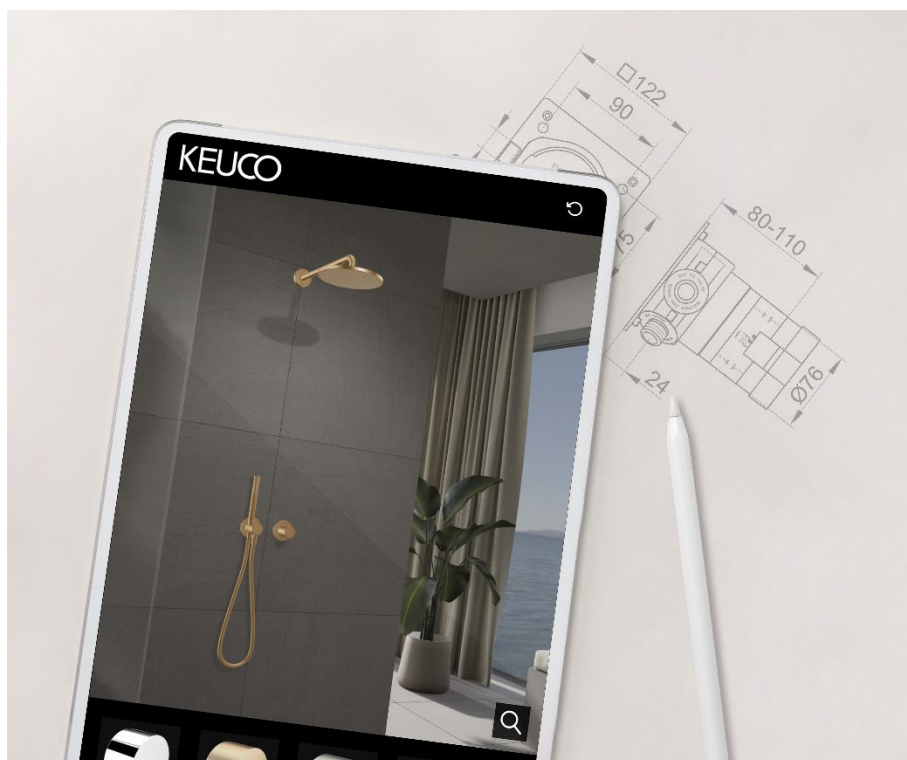

Bathroom planning meets user-friendliness: The newly designed IXMO planner from KEUCO not only has an impressive modern design but also offers enhanced functionality that makes planning of shower and bath tub fittings easier and more convenient than ever before.

One tool - endless possibilities: The intuitive planning tool is available at www.ixmo.de. It guides specialist partners and customers step by step throughout the entire planning process. First, you will be asked whether the product is for use in the shower or bath tub. Then, the surface finish of the fittings is chosen. Finishes range from classic chrome to exclusive variants such as brushed titanium black. The design can also be tailored to individual requirements: round or square? Then choose the number and type of functions. Options range from head and hand showers to extravagant wellness options with a waterfall shower and SPA hose. Finally, choose your preferred temperature regulator: a single-lever mixer with a choice of handle designs, or a thermostat. Then decide whether you want an integrated or separate shut-off fitting.

The individual configuration is visualised in the chosen design and finish and displayed in a clear overview. All selected items appear with their article numbers in a detailed overview, which can be saved as a PDF, printed, or discussed directly with your dealer. In addition, the IXMO planner offers everything installers, architects and planners need for implementation: an installation plan and BIM data for digital planning.

With the new IXMO planner from KEUCO, an idea becomes a tailor-made concept. The new look and improved usability make digital bathroom design a real experience - fast, effective, and inspiring.
